Advanced Executive Secretarial Skills

Introduction

The role of office professionals, particularly secretaries, has evolved significantly in recent years. Today's executive secretaries and office managers are expected to possess a wider range of secretary skills, enabling them to handle complex tasks, resolve conflicts, make difficult decisions, and contribute to organizational success. In addition to the traditional secretarial skills, office professionals must now exhibit emotional intelligence EI, creativity, leadership qualities, and the ability to manage their time effectively in high-pressure environments.

This interactive, discussion-based course is designed to equip participants with the advanced secretary skills they need to thrive in modern office settings. By focusing on key areas such as leadership, communication, time management, and relationship building, this course empowers participants to enhance their capabilities and become more effective contributors to their teams and organizations.

Course Objectives

By the end of this course, participants will be able to:

- Take on independent and leadership roles while working collaboratively in teams.
- Apply advanced secretarial skills to improve communication and make a more significant impact in the workplace.
- Structure their workload effectively using time management strategies to achieve optimal performance.
- Build and maintain effective working relationships by adapting to different working styles and managing conflicts.
- Use Emotional Intelligence EI to influence and understand colleagues, helping to resolve workplace conflicts and achieve organizational goals.
