Legal Aspects of Human Resources Management Under the Saudi Labor Law

Introduction

Human Resources Management in today's business environment increasingly depends on a clear understanding of the legal and regulatory frameworks governing the employment relationship between organizations and their employees. With the continuous development of Saudi labor regulations, HR professionals, legal teams, and administrative managers must have a strong understanding of the legal requirements related to recruitment, employment contracts, wages, working hours, leave, performance management, disciplinary procedures, and termination of employment.

The legal responsibility of Human Resources Management extends beyond simply complying with statutory requirements. It also involves applying these requirements consistently and effectively within the workplace to protect employee rights while safeguarding the organization's interests. This requires the ability to manage different employment situations, properly document HR actions, assess legal risks, and minimize the potential for labor disputes and employment-related claims.

The Legal Aspects of Human Resources Management Under the Saudi Labor Law course provides a comprehensive understanding of the legal and regulatory aspects of Human Resources Management, with a strong focus on the practical application of Saudi Labor Law throughout the employment lifecycle. The course examines the legal framework governing employment relationships, employment contracts, the rights and obligations of employers and employees, wages and benefits, working hours and leave, disciplinary procedures, termination of employment, and the management of labor disputes.

The course also focuses on strengthening participants' ability to interpret legal requirements and apply them within HR policies and procedures, while identifying potential legal risks and implementing appropriate measures to minimize them. Through practical cases and realistic workplace situations, participants will develop stronger professional capabilities for managing employment-related legal matters in accordance with Saudi labor requirements and modern professional practices.
