Certificate in Advanced Budgeting and Forecasting

Code: FA28 From: 29 December 2025 - 2 January 2026 City: Toronto (Canada) Fees: 4700 Pound

Introduction

This Budgeting and Forecasting course goes beyond the theoretical aspects of budgeting to cover specific steps that turn budgeting into a value-added process for your organization. By building user-friendly models and applying scenario analysis, management will spend less time gathering data and more time analyzing it for informed decision-making. Throughout the course, practical tools, such as what-if analysis and the Solver function in Microsoft Excel, will be used to equip participants with the skills they need to apply immediately in their organization.

The course also highlights key forecasting models and provides a detailed evaluation of capital budgeting techniques, all of which are applied using Microsoft Excel and put into practice.
