Public Sector Monitoring & Evaluation

Code: NC28 From: 15 - 19 December 2025 City: Prague (Czech) Fees: 5100 Pound

Introduction

This comprehensive course provides an in-depth overview and analysis of monitoring and evaluation M&E theories and practices, particularly focusing on how M&E enhances public management and public policy. Monitoring and evaluation play an essential role in improving decision-making within the public sector, ensuring more efficient and effective outcomes. The course uses both international and local case studies, and participants will engage in discussions with policy managers, policy advisors, and experienced evaluators from different governments to explore real-world examples of performance evaluation in the public sector and policy impact evaluation.

By focusing on government program evaluation methods, policy analysis and evaluation, and performance measurement in government, this course will provide participants with the knowledge and skills necessary to implement robust monitoring and evaluation strategies, leading to better decision-making and outcomes in the public sector.

Course Objectives

By the end of this course, participants will be able to:

- Understand the critical role of monitoring and evaluation in public management and public policy, and how these processes can improve government accountability and policy implementation evaluation.
- Explore different monitoring and evaluation methods, identifying their strengths and weaknesses in responding to key public sector and policy analysis and evaluation questions.
- Gain practical knowledge on performance measurement in government, and understand how to use monitoring and evaluation information effectively to improve public sector effectiveness.
- Learn the essential components of evaluation design, including how to set clear goals, select appropriate indicators, and develop measurable objectives for government program evaluation methods.
