Diplomacy in Public and International Relations

Code: NC28 From: 26 - 30 April 2026 City: Dubai (UAE) Fees: 4600 Pound

Introduction

In today's increasingly complex and interconnected world, diplomacy is no longer limited to traditional state-to-state negotiations. Instead, it has evolved into a multi-dimensional tool that encompasses public relations, media, private institutions, and civil society. Diplomacy in Public and International Relations has become a strategic mechanism for reputation-building, enhancing soft power, and managing crises on both local and global levels.

This program is tailored for executives, team leaders, and professionals across government and private institutions in the Middle East and North Africa. It equips participants with a deep understanding of modern transformations in international relations and highlights the role of communication and media strategies in shaping contemporary diplomacy. Participants will also acquire practical tools to enhance leadership capabilities, improve institutional performance, and build trust and cooperation across borders.
