Fraud and Corruption Prevention in Internal Audit

Code: QM32 From: 24 - 28 August 2026 City: Malé (Maldives) Fees: 5400 Pound

Introduction

Fraud and Corruption Prevention in Internal Audit is a critical function in maintaining transparency, accountability, and integrity within organizations.

In an environment where financial and operational risks continue to evolve, internal auditors play a vital role in identifying, assessing, and preventing fraudulent and unethical activities.

This course provides participants with a comprehensive understanding of modern practices, analytical tools, and investigation techniques used to detect and prevent fraud and corruption.

Through real-world case studies and interactive exercises, participants will learn how to evaluate internal control systems, apply forensic auditing techniques, and develop effective governance frameworks that strengthen organizational resilience.

The program blends theoretical knowledge with hands-on application, enabling participants to implement robust anti-fraud measures and enhance their organization's defense mechanisms against corruption and misconduct.
