Crisis Communication & Reputation Management

Code: PR32 From: 10 - 14 May 2027 City: Pulau Ujong (Singapore) Fees: 5400 Pound

Introduction

In today's unpredictable business environment, the question is not whether a crisis will occur, but when and how it will be managed. A crisis can disrupt operations, damage credibility, and harm relationships with stakeholders. Effective Crisis Communication & Reputation Management has become a strategic necessity to minimize risks, safeguard trust, and maintain organizational resilience.

This program equips participants with the knowledge and tools to design response strategies, manage information flow, and protect reputation under pressure. It is tailored for executives, team leaders, and specialists across various functions who aim to strengthen their skills in navigating complex challenges and turning crises into opportunities.
