Advanced Compensation and Total Rewards Strategy

Code: AC32 From: 17 - 21 May 2027 City: London (UK) Fees: 6100 Pound

Introduction

The Advanced Compensation and Total Rewards Strategy course focuses on developing advanced capabilities in designing, evaluating, and managing compensation systems that support organizational strategy, workforce performance, and long-term talent retention. Modern organizations require reward systems that go beyond salary administration and address competitiveness, workforce engagement, leadership retention, succession planning, and business sustainability.

This course provides an advanced and integrated understanding of compensation structures, executive rewards, variable pay models, total rewards strategy, workforce cost optimization, and reward governance. It also examines how organizations align compensation frameworks with business objectives, market positioning, performance outcomes, and workforce expectations in complex operational environments.

The course is delivered over five connected days. It begins with advanced compensation strategy and reward governance, then moves into executive compensation and salary structures, variable pay and performance-linked rewards, workforce cost optimization and analytics, and finally reward effectiveness, governance, and strategic improvement.

Course Objectives
