Managing Vendor Qualification, Performance & Contract Compliance

Code: SC32 From: 31 August - 4 September 2026 City: London (UK) Fees: 5400 Pound

Introduction

Suppliers and vendors play a major role in the success, stability, and profitability of any organization. Their performance affects product quality, service delivery, operational continuity, customer satisfaction, inventory efficiency, and total cost. For this reason, organizations need a formal and structured system to qualify vendors, evaluate suppliers, monitor performance, and ensure contract compliance.

Successful organizations do not treat suppliers and vendors only as external providers. They manage them as business partners who can support growth, improve service quality, reduce hidden costs, and contribute to better operational results. However, this partnership must be supported by clear supplier selection criteria, objective vendor qualification methods, measurable performance indicators, and strong contract compliance controls.

This Managing Vendor Qualification, Performance & Contract Compliance course provides a practical approach to supplier and vendor management. It focuses on how to compile an approved supplier list, assess supplier capability, establish acceptance criteria, measure supplier performance, interpret results, apply corrective actions, and understand remedies for breach of contract.

The course combines strategic supplier relationship management with practical tools that support procurement, contracts, operations, engineering, quality, maintenance, and project functions.

Conclusion

The Managing Vendor Qualification, Performance & Contract Compliance course provides a structured framework for improving how organizations select, evaluate, monitor, and manage suppliers and vendors.

The course begins with vendor qualification, supplier and vendor distinction, procurement objectives, end-user involvement, supplier selection criteria, approved supplier list development, and supplier segmentation. It then moves into supplier evaluation and assessment through pre-qualification questionnaires, quality management systems, supplier certification, ISO certification, and acceptance criteria.

The program then focuses on supplier performance measurement, including company-aligned objectives, performance systems, supplier performance management, metrics, and implementation. It also covers how to interpret supplier performance results through rating, ranking, result dissemination, supplier recognition, and corrective action procedures.

The final day addresses remedies for breach of contract, including breach types, available remedies, quantum of damages, liquidated damages, equitable damages, and court injunctions.

By the end of the course, participants will be better equipped to qualify vendors, evaluate suppliers, measure supplier performance, enhance supplier relationships, identify and reduce hidden costs, improve customer satisfaction, support continuous improvement, and ensure contract compliance.
