Ref: 77_363048 Date: 25 – 29 October 2027 Location: Malé (Maldives) Fees: 5400 GBP

Introduction:

This Luxury Retail Management Training Course equips you to steer boutique performance, elevate high-net-worth client experiences, and safeguard store profitability across one week. You will build a Luxury Boutique Operational Blueprint and Clienteling Playbook containing service journey standards, inventory control protocols, and luxury key performance indicator scorecards. You need foundational experience in retail store sales or departmental supervision, as this practitioner-level course strengthens your commercial and operational execution. You will practise through case study analysis of real boutique records, luxury store footfall data, and clienteling portfolio profiles.

Course Objectives:

- Map ultra-high-net-worth client journeys using ESSEC luxury clienteling models on boutique transaction data
- Score boutique merchandising compliance using RNCP35268 luxury retail standards across floor display layouts
- Audit stock accuracy and shrinkage using AIBM luxury fashion retail inventory control matrixes
- Draft omnichannel customer retention workflows using Altagamma luxury customer insight benchmark metrics
- Build boutique sales performance dashboards using Luxury Retailer Association store operational indicators

Target Audience:

- You direct daily boutique operations and manage sales floor service standards across luxury retail environments.
- You lead retail client advisors to achieve boutique targets while delivering personalised VIP client experiences.
- You oversee store merchandise replenishment, secure stockroom flows, and loss prevention across luxury categories.
- You supervise department store concession corners and brand shop-in-shops to uphold brand identity standards.
- You coordinate cross-channel luxury retail clienteling initiatives and customer relationship management campaigns.

Course Outline:

Why Attend This Course:

- Standardise boutique service rituals by applying proven international luxury retail competencies to daily floor routines.
- Drive client retention and repeat sales by structuring clienteling workflows for high-net-worth and VIP client accounts.
- Protect store margins by implementing strict inventory control and shrinkage prevention protocols across high-value stock.
- Produce a Luxury Boutique Operational Blueprint and Clienteling Playbook to govern boutique performance immediately.

Conclusion:

Returning to your boutique, you will immediately use your Luxury Boutique Operational Blueprint and Clienteling Playbook to review floor standards and client outreach processes. You will present the service workflows, loss prevention procedures, and clienteling schedules to your retail director and boutique team for operational sign-off. After deploying the service and inventory routines during your first trading week, you will check daily conversion rates, average transaction values, and stock reconciliation logs to verify operational stability.

Frequently Asked Questions FAQ:

What will you be able to do after the Luxury Retail Management Training Course?

You will be able to direct luxury boutique operations, implement clienteling strategies for high-net-worth clients, maintain visual merchandising standards, and run rigorous stockroom inventory controls. You will also track boutique performance using established luxury retail industry productivity benchmarks.

What do you need to know before starting the Luxury Retail Management Training Course?

You need foundational experience working in retail sales environments or supervising commercial floor staff. Familiarity with basic store sales tracking and point-of-sale systems is helpful, though previous executive management experience in luxury flagship stores is not required.

What deliverable do you build during the Luxury Retail Management Training Course?

You build a Luxury Boutique Operational Blueprint and Clienteling Playbook. This deliverable includes boutique baseline audits, visual merchandising checklists, high-net-worth clienteling cadences, inventory loss prevention protocols, and balanced luxury store performance scorecards.

How does the Luxury Retail Management Training Course differ from a general retail management course?

This course focuses on high-touch relationship management, prestigious brand equity, and high-value asset safeguarding rather than mass-market volume turnover. You address the service rituals, bespoke clienteling techniques, and loss prevention controls distinctive to luxury boutiques.
